Cohen Children's Medical Center, a member of Northwell Health is the largest verified ACS-Level I Pediatric Trauma Center in New York State. Established in 1996, the New York State Department of Health designated us as the first regional Pediatric Trauma Center in the entire downstate/Long Island region.

Stony Brook University Hospital is the only ACS-verified Level I Adult and Pediatric Trauma Center in Suffolk County. This is the highest-level trauma designation by the New York State Department of Health. We admit more than 300 children per year with traumatic injuries.
